

Program Manager, International Operations

Who are we?

We are a bunch of learning enthusiasts hooked on delivering meaningful learning outcomes. As India's largest professional learning company and with a global footprint in 170+ countries, we're on a mission to make professionals around the globe proficient and future-ready. We are also totally sold on the idea that data is the new currency driving the world and that data-driven analytics and automation determine survival and success. Our mission is to make all knowledge professionals data-proficient thus ensuring their success in the data and automation-driven digital future (and yes, make the world a better place while we are at it).

Mission Statement - To enable career success in the digital economy (through transformational learning experiences)

Our story so far. . .

A brainchild of Mohan Lakhamraju and Hari Nair, Great Learning came about in mid-2013. Starting from a 4-member team, today we are 2000 strong and growing fast. We have created a network of 2500 + Gurus (Industry Experts and Academicians) who help us deliver high-quality learning experiences across 30+ programs and 170+ countries. Over the last eight years, we have delivered more than 10 million hours of impactful learning, seen a 100x growth in learners, and a 30x growth in revenue and we are just getting warmed up!!

Keeping in mind the importance of constant skill development in an effort to stay relevant, we crafted our programs with institutions like Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Stanford Center for Professional Development, McCombs School of Business (UT Austin), IIT Roorkee, IIT Madras, Stanford GSB (Executive Education), and, Great Lakes Institute of Management..

We are leaders – our Great Learning Business Analytic Program was ranked #1 in India 4 years in a row and this speaks volumes about the quality of work we do amidst such stiff competition in the market. Several of our newer programs have shot up their respective charts within the first year of their launch! We love our programs and we feel immense pride every time our graduates crack new jobs, new promotions, new roles and start new divisions or startups - but we are never satisfied and will never stop Learn More about us and our journey so far: <https://www.greatlearning.in/about-us>

What is the role of the Program Manager @ GL?

This role sits in the Program Office which is a part of the international delivery operations team - the team responsible for handling of end-to-end journey of the learners.

A program manager owns the entire lifecycle of a cohort of learners, from the enrolment to the completion of the program journey. Learners are working professionals from across the globe, aspiring to upskill in new age / digital competencies, like data analytics, data science, artificial intelligence et. al.

In this role of a Program Manager, one has to,

1. Be the first point of contact for participants for any queries, and provide necessary support for all the needs within the scope of program offerings, in a timely manner
2. Foster meaningful relationships with participants, understand their needs & preferences, and deliver a personalized experience
3. Drive all the Program Office responsibilities around scheduling & delivering program activities, including but not limited to, online sessions, webinars, evaluations, grading, presentations, etc. This will require engagement with a variety of internal and external stakeholders like senior managers, academicians, industry professionals et. al.
4. Monitor, diagnose and drive interventions around participants' performance and engagement during the program journey to ensure each participant has a great experience and achieves learning outcomes
5. Contribute to organization building by identification, development and implementation of processes for efficient and effective program management

What are we looking for?

We are looking for people who believe in learning for life and care about impacting lives through education, and who can do all this while having a lot of fun and learning in the process.

- Excellent oral and written communication skills
- Ability to hold meaningful conversations with senior professionals
- Problem-solving - good aptitude and the ability to identify problem areas and proactively provide solutions
- Ability to learn fast and work in a fast-paced environment
- Prior experience in handling international clients/customers would be an advantage
- Excellent work ethic - those who work for a reason and not just to check boxes - those who are inspired by the vision of impacting the world through education
